English

I hope you have been enjoying 'Super Sentence Stacking'. In addition to sending Jane your sentences, you can always send your sentences to me at yearfive@blowers.dudley.sch.uk.

Join your virtual teacher (Jane Considine) from 9.45 onwards for a sentence stacking lesson. Here is a video explaining how 'Super Sentence Stacking' works:

Subscribe to the channel to keep updated. This channel is where the live lessons will be uploaded.

Maths

Today we are going to multiply by multiples of ten.

Here is an example:

$$3 \times 4 = 12 \text{ therefore } 3 \times 40 = 120$$

Remember to choose the colour of questions that best suits your ability. You only need to do one colour (some of you have asked if you can do all of them and of course you can). Please also remember to email yearfive@blowers.dudley.sch.uk if you are finding anything difficult, we are here to help!

History

Today you will be creating a Norman timeline using your research from Tuesday. You could list the events in your homework book, create a timeline on paper, make a PowerPoint or even use an app like 'Smartdraw' to create a timeline. It is up to you how you present your work, just make sure the main events are summarised. Here is a good website that highlights the main events of Norman Britain:
