Tomorrow is VE Day. So today I thought we could start preparing our celebrations. I hope you have finished your bunting, so you can hang it up in your window.

Mrs Potter has launched a competition today to help celebrate VE day. I can't wait to see your entries.

Dance

Click on this link below, it is the Glenn Miller Orchestra and the song is called 'In the Mood' Dance to the music and find the beat, you could even pretend to play some of the instruments. Do you know any of the names of the instruments? How would you dance to this music? How does the music make you feel?

Use the website to read 'The Toys' Party'.

Can you order the pictures in activity 2? Retell the story to an adult as you order the pictures.

Tea Party

Tomorrow, all over Britain, people will be having parties in their house. So today I want you to have a tea party with your teddies. A bit like Kipper -but do not make so much mess! For the best tea parties, you need a drink, food, and something sweet. With an adult can you make your favourite sandwich. Try and butter the bread yourself. I am looking forward to seeing all your tea parties. Don't forget your teddies will need a plate and a cup.

Paper planes.

During World War II fighter planes were used. They would try to shoot down the enemy's bomber planes and protect their own bombers. Fighter planes were armed with high powered machine guns and cannons.

Can you make a paper plane? You will need a piece of A4 paper.

I made mine to look like an army plane. I coloured it lots of different shades of green.

Then I folded it following the instructions from the video.

Get everyone in your house to make a paper aeroplane. Have a competition to see whose plane flies the furthest. You could use your handprints from last week to measure the distance.

Do you know what this is?

It is the Union Jack and it is the flag for the United Kingdom. Do you know what colours are needed for the flag? Can you design your own flag using the same three colours?

I hope you have a lovely day tomorrow. Molly and I are dressing up in red, white and blue. We will be baking some cakes and making sandwiches ready for our tea party at 3 o'clock.

Don't forget to send me lots of photographs.

Stay safe

Mrs Macdonald
